Cesar De La Vega is the Juanita Tate Social Justice Fellow at The City Project in Los Angeles, California. As a native of Los Angeles's Eastside and former intern, Cesar was excited to return to The City Project after completing a post-graduate fellowship in the Office of the General Counsel at the Urban Institute in Washington, D.C. Cesar received his JD from Stanford Law School in 2014 and his BA in Psychology from the University of California, Los Angeles in 2010.

While in law school, Cesar participated in the school's Organizations and Transactions Clinic—providing free corporate legal services to Bay Area nonprofit organizations—and the Obesity in Santa Clara County Policy Practicum, a collaborative effort between the Law School, the County Counsel's Office, and Stanford University School of Medicine faculty to reduce obesity rates in the county through the identification, development, evaluation, and presentation of strategies and initiatives for the County Board of Supervisors. Cesar is a recipient of the Ford Foundation Post-Graduate Fellowship in Public Interest Law, and La Raza Lawyers of Santa Clara County Charitable Foundation Merit Award.
